Romulus man charged in murder conspiracy

By STEVE O'LEARY
ANP Staff Writer

A Romulus man, accused of trying to hire a "hit man" to kill his business partner and next-door neighbor, waived his right to a preliminary examination Friday morning in 19th District Court in Dearborn.

Albert Holton, 35, is charged with conspiracy to incite, induce or extort another to murder or kill a person. The alleged intended victim, Vincent Bobak, 35, also of Romulus, is a co-owner with Holton in B & H Video stores in Dearborn Heights and Sterling Heights.

According to Romulus Detective Sam Chalton, Holton allegedly had voiced an interest in doing away with his partner to a female employee of the Dearborn Heights store.

"She wasn't sure if he was joking or not," Chalton said, "but she made up a story about having a relative who did that kind of work, just in case."

"She was concerned with Bobak's life. She thought 'maybe he'll come to me first if he is serious.'"

It proved to be a smart move on the employee's part, because Holton allegedly "called everyday, asking if she had contacted her uncle yet about the job," explained Chalton.

It was three or four weeks after the initial comments were made that the Romulus Police were contacted.

Chalton said "Vincent Bobak came to me on the 21st of March, he had with him a female employee who told me his partner was trying to kill him. They were convinced he wasn't just talking and that he meant business. After gathering the facts, I contacted the State Police, and we set the trap."

At approximately 5:20 p.m. on March 22, Holton was arrested in the Westborn shopping center parking lot on Michigan Avenue in Dearborn after allegedly paying an undercover Michigan State Police trooper, posing as a for-hire hit man, a cash down payment on a $1,000 contract."

According to Chalton, the trouble reportedly stemmed from Bobak pressuring Holton to sell his share of the business, which was supposedly going downhill.

Holton is free on a $10,000 bond with the condition that he not return to his Romulus home — which is next door to Bobak — but stay instead with his mother in Wyandotte. A date for the trial has not been set.

Moving up

Carey to seek state rep post

Mary Lou Carey, Huron Township's veteran clerk, announced her candidacy for state representative of the new 21st District at the Huron Township Board meeting last week.

Mrs. Carey, active in Huron politics for nearly 20 years, told the board that she enters the upcoming political campaign with "the encouragement of my husband and my daughter, and many friends and supporters."

The representative's position was vacated by the death of Richard Sullivan in February from an unexpected heart attack. His wife had died in December from a heart attack.

Carey was raised as a child in Detroit and Rockwood and moved to Huron Township in 1950, the year of her marriage to Bob Carey.

She raised two children, both daughters, Pamela and Gayle, while working at General Motors for 16 years. She became active in community affairs during that time, particularly in education and the girl scouts' organization.

In 1971, Carey was appointed township clerk by the Huron Board, and was elected to that position in 1972 and 1974; lost by 39 votes against Sandra Rhodes in 1976, and in turn defeated her in 1978, and was again re-elected in 1980 for the first 4-year term for township officials in Michigan.

The township clerk, who is known outside her area through activities in various groups and township and state organizations, is competing for a position in the House of Representatives which represents a new area.

The new district now includes two new townships in Lenawee County: Deerfield and Ridgeway and still includes Huron and Sumpter townships in Wayne County and parts of Monroe and Washtenaw County.

"I'm sure it's going to be a tough race because there are several other qualified candidates," she said later.

"However, my years of experience in local government, and representing many of these same townships as a director of the Michigan Township Association will help me," she added.

Work can be fun

Youngsters in the Belleville school system are finding out that they can exercise and have loads of fun at the same time. Playing basketball, rope-climbing and running an "obstacle course" are just a few of the ways these kindergarteners are getting in the habit of keeping fit. They not only exercise for their health, but this unique program also prompts the children to work in teams, teaching them the benefits of working together as opposed to strictly competitive recreation. But above all, they have good 'ol fashioned fun. If only exercising was that much fun for us older folks!

Change of life:

Heart attack alters normal lifestyle

By ROSE MARY REIZ
ANP Staff Writer

Dec. 10, 1982 noon James Symington, a robust 54-year-old Westland resident, prepares for work.

See related story on Page A-2.

A U.S. citizen for 25 years, Symington retains the ruddy complexion, clear eyes and soft brogue reminiscent of his homeland, Scotland.

With five grown children, Symington's days have settled into a predictable routine of work (Symington has been in the meat cutting business for 41 years), quiet evenings and, weather permitting, a competitive hobby of lawn bowling.

There is no clue, no warning, nothing to indicate that this day will be any different.

1:30 p.m. Symington arrives to work the afternoon shift at the Livonia Food Emporium supermarket.

3:15 p.m. He walks to a nearby restaurant for coffee.

3:30 p.m. Symington returns from his coffee break and resumes work. Puzzled, he hesitates. A cold sensation is coursing through his body. There is a strange tightening in his arm and in his chest, which suddenly seems weak, incapable of supporting even his outer skin.

Unaware that the next few moments are dictating the course of his life forever, Symington collapses to a seat on some cardboard boxes. He refuses an ambulance, promises his coworkers he will return the following day, and leaves for home.

"I was going to work another ten years and my wife was going to quit her job. Now I stay home and watch her go to work every day. We made financial plans. Now our plans are knocked to hell"

— heart attack victim James Symington

"You get a little cramp in your hand and think it's another attack. You start to think twice about all the things you used to do without thinking"

— James Symington

Moments later Symington is maneuvering his automobile around a curve when the sensation returns. To compensate for the icy flow in his limbs, a bewildered Symington turns the car heater up. He pulls off the freeway and sits until, a few minutes later, the sensation subsides.

That evening Symington admits to his wife Kathy that he feels odd, but assures her he'll be well enough to go back to work the following day.

Dec. 11 Still feeling strange but not actually ill, Symington visits his family doctor and describes his symptoms. The doctor listens, looks up in alarm and administers a quick EKG test. He then orders Symington's immediate admission to Botsford Hospital's intensive care unit.

That evening James Symington, who was born in his mother's Scotland home, whose body bears not a single scar and who has never broken so much as a finger, stares at a hospital wall for the first time in his life and, also for the first time, begins to suspect that he might not return to work the next day.

One year and four months later, Symington still hasn't returned to work.

"A year ago I didn't know what a soap opera was. Now I never miss 'The Guiding Light,'" is how Symington describes one of the many changes since his heart attack blocked portions of one main and two minor arteries.

The quick laugh, ruddy complexion and hearty frame help Symington appear much younger than his 56 years.

But he says he feels older.

How much do you know about heart disease? Do you or a close family member have heart disease? Do you know anyone who has had a heart attack? Do you smoke? Are you overweight or do you lead an inactive life?

If your answer to any of these questions is yes, learning more about heart disease, its risk factors, and how you can keep your heart healthy is in your best interests.

Diseases of the heart and blood vessels are the leading cause of death in the United States today. In 1984, 1.5 million Americans will have a heart attack and approximately 36 percent of those people will die as a result. An estimated 64.4 billion dollars will be spent on the treatment of cardiovascular diseases this year alone. Local statistics also reveal heart disease to be the number one killer (see chart).

To change these figures and reduce the number of cardiovascular related deaths, individuals must determine their risk of developing heart disease and begin programs to modify such risks.

The heart is a hollow, specialized muscle. Its primary function is to pump blood continuously through the body, so body organs receive the vital nutrients needed to sustain life. The normal heart is approximately the size of a closed fist and is located behind the breastbone and slightly toward the left.

It is composed of four chambers and four cardiac valves which help regulate blood flow in an orderly manner. For it to function properly, the heart itself must receive an adequate blood supply, which it gets from the arteries that serve it — the coronary arteries.

There are two main coronary artery systems located on the outer surface of the heart, which supply the muscle with oxygen-rich blood.

When these arteries become "clogged" with fatty deposits (atherosclerosis or hardening of the arteries) coronary artery disease (CAD) exists. This is not a disease one acquires overnight, and, in fact it may take years before symptoms develop. Its cause remains unknown, but there are a number of factors that put a person at risk of developing atherosclerosis and suffering its consequences.

Angina pectoris and myocardial infarction (M.I., heart attack, coronary) are the two major complications resulting from coronary artery disease.

Angina is a chest discomfort or pain that occurs when a portion of the heart muscle is temporarily depleted of blood. This usually occurs during exertion when extra demands are placed on the heart. The narrowed coronary arteries are unable to deliver enough blood to the muscle to meet its needs. This pain is generally relieved with rest and/or nitroglycerin tablets under the tongue and usually lasts less than five minutes.

Myocardial infarction, or heart attack is actually the death of a portion of the heart muscle. This is caused by a total loss of blood supply to that portion of the heart muscle for a prolonged period of time

"The vast majority of people who sustain heart attacks go on to lead normal lives..."

— Sue Housholder

and is generally due to advanced atherosclerosis.

The cause of coronary artery disease is unknown, but certain risk factors have been identified.

Risk factors that can be changed by behavior, beliefs, and life-style are modifiable ones. Modifiable risk factors include, hypertension (high blood pressure), diabetes, obesity, cigarette smoking, inactive life-style, stressful life-style, and high cholesterol and triglyceride levels (fatty substances).

Non-modifiable risk factors include sex, age, and heredity. The key to maintaining a healthy heart is in the modification of risk factors.

Cigarette smoking is a major health hazard.

Contained in each cigarette is the dangerous gas, carbon monoxide and an addicting drug called nicotine. Carbon monoxide decreases the oxygen-carrying capacity of red blood cells, which causes the heart rate and blood pressure to increase. As a result of prolonged cigarette use, thickening of arterial vessel wall will occur.

Nicotine is known to constrict blood vessels and could be an obvious danger to an already narrowed vessel. Smokers with coronary artery disease may experience chest discomfort when they smoke.

Most Americans are too heavy. Obesity places an added burden on the heart and is associated with high blood pressure, diabetes, increased levels of body fats, and reduced physical activity.

Elevated blood fat levels, specifically cholesterol and triglycerides, is another risk factor. An excess of these substances in the blood causes deposits along artery walls, causing the arteries to narrow and roughen.

Unfortunately, it is the American way to rush, rush, rush! In our fast moving society, it is truly difficult to live a stressful life. There is a personality type that has been associated with an increase risk to CAD and is known as the type "A" personality. Characteristics of such a person are aggressiveness, high competitive drive, impatience, and time urgency.

Stress causes a release of various body hormones that cause the heart rate and blood pressure to increase, placing an extra burden on the heart. Continuous, prolonged stress has also been shown to increase blood cholesterol and triglyceride levels, as well as sugar levels.

It is impossible for a person to change the fact that he or she has high blood pressure or diabetes (high sugar levels), but both these conditions, which increase the risk of developing heart disease can be controlled. Constant high blood pressure also causes a wear and tear of artery linings and accelerates the buildup of fatty deposits along the artery wall.

Diabetes leads to increased cholesterol levels, predisposing a person to the early development of atherosclerosis.

Our bodies were not made to remain inactive. A person who is sedentary frequently is also overweight and has higher-than-normal blood cholesterol levels. The efficiency of the heart and circulatory system is hampered, so the heart rate and blood pressure rises with even minimal physical exertion.

These risk factors can be changed.

Although one cannot change the non-modifiable risk factors, one should not ignore them because they are good indicators for predicting one's level of risk.

Presently, men are at a higher risk for the development of coronary artery disease than women, but these statistics are quickly changing. Also, the older one is the higher the risk.

Examine your family history. If one's parents, grandparents, or other blood relatives have had a history of heart disease, this places the person at a greater risk.

It is advisable to consult a physician before changing exercise, diet or medication program.

Next week: Prevention of heart diseases.

Change of life...

"I get up at 5 a.m. to drive my wife to work, stop for coffee and a doughnut, read the paper and I'm ready to fall asleep again."

Low-cholesterol egg scrambles ("which don't taste anything like eggs") now replace the hefty sausage and egg breakfast that used to be daily fare. A two-pack-a-day cigarette habit has diminished to 12.

Stress, a factor that even Symington's close friends never recognized ("People always asked me why I never got upset about anything. But I kept it inside.") has taken a new form — once caught up in pressures of work, now it's inactivity that Symington finds aggravating.

Housework occupies a large portion of each day. When the weather breaks, Symington will begin lawn bowling practices and enter a series of Canadian tournaments where he placed first among 100 competitors last year. Chairman of the House and Ground Committee, he will spend time patrolling his apartment complex, fulfilling part of the walking exercise prescribed by his physicians.

"I have plenty of hobbies," Symington says. "It's working and bringing home a paycheck that I miss."

"If I was sick in bed things would be different," he continues. "But with this heart thing, I don't feel that bad. Still, doctors say I can't do lifting or manual labor. I was going to work another ten years and my wife was going to quit her job. Now I stay home and watch her go to work every day. We made financial plans. Now our plans are knocked to hell."

When you're at home and not working, Symington says, there's plenty of time for the imagination to run wild.

Scientists find 'SPACE'

The SPACE (Special Program for Academic and Creative Enrichment) program, based at Merriman Elementary School provides a unique opportunity for some of the academically talented children in Romulus. The planned activities are designed to develop initiative, critical thinking and divergent and convergent thinking skills.

The SPACE science fair, which was held recently, was a culmination of students working on their own individually-selected science topics.

Each student was guided by Jean Weiler, the teacher coordinator, in following the scientific process. That process consisted of stating the purpose of the experiment, a prediction of the outcome, the experiment itself, using a definite procedure and a conclusion, stat-

Every exhibit was accompanied by a written report. Both were evaluated by parents who volunteered to be judges. They included

Huron OKs '84 budget

A $1,566,382 budget was approved 5-1 by the Huron Township Board last week.

The 1984-85 budget is $219,470 more than last year's $1,346,912 figure.

"If there is any where the board wants to do some cutting, be my guest," said Township Supervisor A.J. Haener.

The biggest single increase in the new budget is in the area of Public Safety.

The cost this upcoming year will be $623,165, up $73,309.

Replacement of outdated equipment, and inflated costs of new police cars accounts for much of the increase. An additional cost in next year's budget will be the unusual schedule of four elections whereas last year there were none.

There will be a special 21st District primary sometime in May, with a special 21st District general election to be called this June, to fill the vacancy for the late State Representative of the 21st, Richard Sullivan. Another regular state primary will be held in August and the presidential election will be Nov. 6.

The Huron budget allocated $18,300 for these elections.

However, the most costly item was again inflation.

For instance, the utility bills for the three fire halls, the township hall and the community center have increased at greater rates than home utilities because of higher commercial rates.

Barden sees early summer cable turn-on

According to Don Barden, president of Barden Cablevision, the first Romulus homes should be hooked up and ready to receive cable television by "late June, early July," and while the contract with the city stipulates that all of Romulus be hooked up by August 1985, Barden says that his company "will finish sooner than that."

"At the moment, they are awaiting delivery of the Earth Station, which will handle the signals. It is expected to arrive within 10 days."

"The tower is already there," Barden explained, "and it should be ready to go up in less than two weeks, at which time we'll have our groundbreaking ceremonies. And the wiring of the city should start simultaneously."

Barden Cablevision of Romulus will be headquartered in the old Manufacturers Bank building, located at 12750 Huron River Drive. Renovation is currently underway.

Mayor Beverly McAnalley, who was updated on the situation by Barden on Monday, said she is "cautiously optimistic" about the proceedings.

"I'm very happy that things are underway, but I don't want people to have the impression that cable is available, and they aren't getting it — it just isn't available yet," she said.

"I wish it was," McAnalley added. "My family is as anxious as any to receive it!"

According to Barden, the southwest quadrant of Romulus will be the first section of the city to be able to receive the pay television service.

Barden Cablevision won the Romulus franchise "by default," according to McAnalley, when "the two companies rated highest by the cable consulting firm, Comcast and Omnicom Cablevision dropped out after negotiation with the previous mayor."

But McAnalley expressed optimism that Barden can do the job well, and said that "any kind of activity is a plus. It's good to see things finally underway."

Reigle Sr.: 'It could have been Don's year'

By JERRY DESHARNAIS
ANP Special Writer

"It's interesting. This might have been Don's year. Doggone it."

That was the remark of Donald

Donald Reigle Sr.

Reigle Sr. about his son, Sen. Reigle of the U.S. Senate.

His father was in Romulus recently on a business visit.

"It's interesting because Don made the statement back somewhere in 1967 or 1968 that he someday might like to be President," he explained. "That was kind of a goal that he had, and he was criticized for it for being brash. He was only 28, and they thought he was a pretty young guy to have an ambition to be President."

"Well, we always thought that anybody could aspire to be President. And I agree. We are really taught that from early on."

"But you know, this was really the year that they were shooting for. His staff that is. It's kind of funny when you think about it."

"Had we known that Gary Hart, who is not as well known in the Senate as Don, was running, coming on like gangbusters sweeping those primaries, and he's not that well known," he added. "Unquestionably, in my mind, Don could have done much better, being more eloquent, and more liberal and for individual rights than Gary Hart."

"Take the Chrysler bail out. That's a good example. Gary Hart was opposed to the Chrysler loan guarantee by the federal government, and Don was for it. He was a fighter for that right from the beginning. In fact it would not have happened had Don not supported it."

But the senior Reigle, vice-president of Reigle Press Inc. located in Davison, believes that his son, now age 46, stands a good chance in the 1988 election, if Reagan should win this current race.

"I think that would be a fair assumption."

"Don has been down there since 1966 and he's got a lot of seniority," he mused. "And who doesn't want to be President."

The Senator is not the only child in the family. There is a daughter Deeann Torres who resides in Guaynabo, Puerto Rico, where she is raising her two daughters.

Don Sr. lives with his wife Dorothy in Flint.

Perhaps the parents of a U.S. President-to-be.

Or Vice-President-to-be. Just last weekend, it was rumored in a Detroit paper that Gary Hart may be considering Sen. Riegle as a vice-presidential mate.

Whatever, the senior Reigle is obviously proud of his senatorial son and possibly wouldn't be disappointed if young Don took the vice-presidential slot.

Then perhaps he would run for president in 1988.

Reserves give up jail job

Members of the Belleville police reserve will probably step down from their jobs as temporary jail monitors in the next few weeks, as a result of a recently approved police dispatchers' settlement.

The dispatchers, members of Teamsters Local 129, voted to ratify their agreement on March 23. The Belleville City Council approved a tentative agreement at an earlier meeting.

The final agreement must be approved by Belleville, Sumpter, and Van Buren, all of whom are represented by the dispatchers. Belleville Police Chief Willard Dockter predicted the dispatchers would be on the job within the month.

"I'm optimistic everyone will approve this," Dockter said.

The dispatchers will monitor the jail cells on evenings and weekends, under terms of the new agreement. They won't touch or handle the prisoners, but will conduct half hour visual checks.

The new agreement provided for a 5 percent pay increase, and 10 vacation days a year. The base salary will be $6.10 an hour.

The four full-time dispatchers joined the Teamsters last fall, shortly after Belleville's two holding cells opened their doors. The cells, located in a locked hallway down from the police station, are used for short-term incarcerations of one or two days.

The settlement takes a load off the reserves who, since September, have monitored the cells for $4 an hour on an on-call basis.

Belleville Mayor Howard Stinehour praised the efforts of the 23 member reserves.

THE CALLING SERVICE THAT'S BEST FOR YOU? JUST PUT YOUR FINGER ON IT.

That's right. You can still put your finger on the calling service you need or want just as easily as before, even though many changes have taken place in the communications industry. Michigan Bell continues to make a wide range of calling services and plans available to you.

A glance at the service options listed below will help you determine if you now have the service and calling plans that best fit your individual needs and budget. As always, reliable Michigan Bell telephone service comes with whatever option you select.

Local Service Options:

Measured Service* — allows up to 50 local calls per month for a small monthly charge. Calls above that limit would be billed to you on a per call basis. If you place few local calls per day, Measured Service could be the most economical choice for you.

Flat Rate Service — gives you unlimited local calls for a single monthly charge. Frequent telephone users may benefit from this service.

*Not available in all areas.

Long Distance Options:

Circle Calling — gives you a 30% discount on direct-dialed long distance calls placed within a 30-mile radius within your LATA[†] except calls placed from 8 a.m. to noon Monday through Friday. The discount applies even when regular long distance discounts are in effect.

Budget Toll Dialing — provides a 30% discount on long distance calls anywhere within your LATA between 10 p.m. and 8 a.m. Sunday evening through Friday morning and from 5 p.m. Friday through 5 p.m. Sunday. Like Circle Calling, the Budget Toll Dialing discount applies even when regular long distance discounts are in effect.

Custom Calling Services:

Call Waiting — when you're on the phone, the Call Waiting signal alerts you someone else is calling. You can alternate conversation between both parties.

Call Forwarding — lets you program your phone so that incoming calls are automatically forwarded to any other telephone you desire.

Speed Calling — allows you to program your phone to dial up to eight or 30 frequently called numbers with simple one- or two-digit entries.

Three-Way Calling — lets you add a third party to a two-party conversation, instead of making separate calls.

(Custom Calling Services are not currently available in all calling areas.)

Dialing Options:

Through Michigan Bell, you have a choice of Rotary Service or Touch-Tone Service.

Rotary Service is pulse dialing. With this service, you need a pulse dialing phone with either a rotary dial or a push-button dial.

Touch-Tone Service is tone dialing. It is the most modern form of dialing. With Touch-Tone Service, you can use either tone dialing or pulse dialing telephones. However, to get the benefits of Touch-Tone Service (such as fast, accurate dialing), be sure to use a push-button phone made for tone dialing, which you can also use to access certain long distance and at-home banking services.

(Touch-Tone Service is not available in all areas.)

Utilities' employees 'tune in' to trouble

Michigan Consolidated Gas Company will be expanding its Eyes and Ears emergency assistance program to the Belleville, Van Buren and Sumpter areas.

The program, which was started in the City of Detroit in February in response to a series of sexual assaults on school-aged children, will also have Detroit Edison and Michigan Bell as participants in the three Western Wayne County communities.

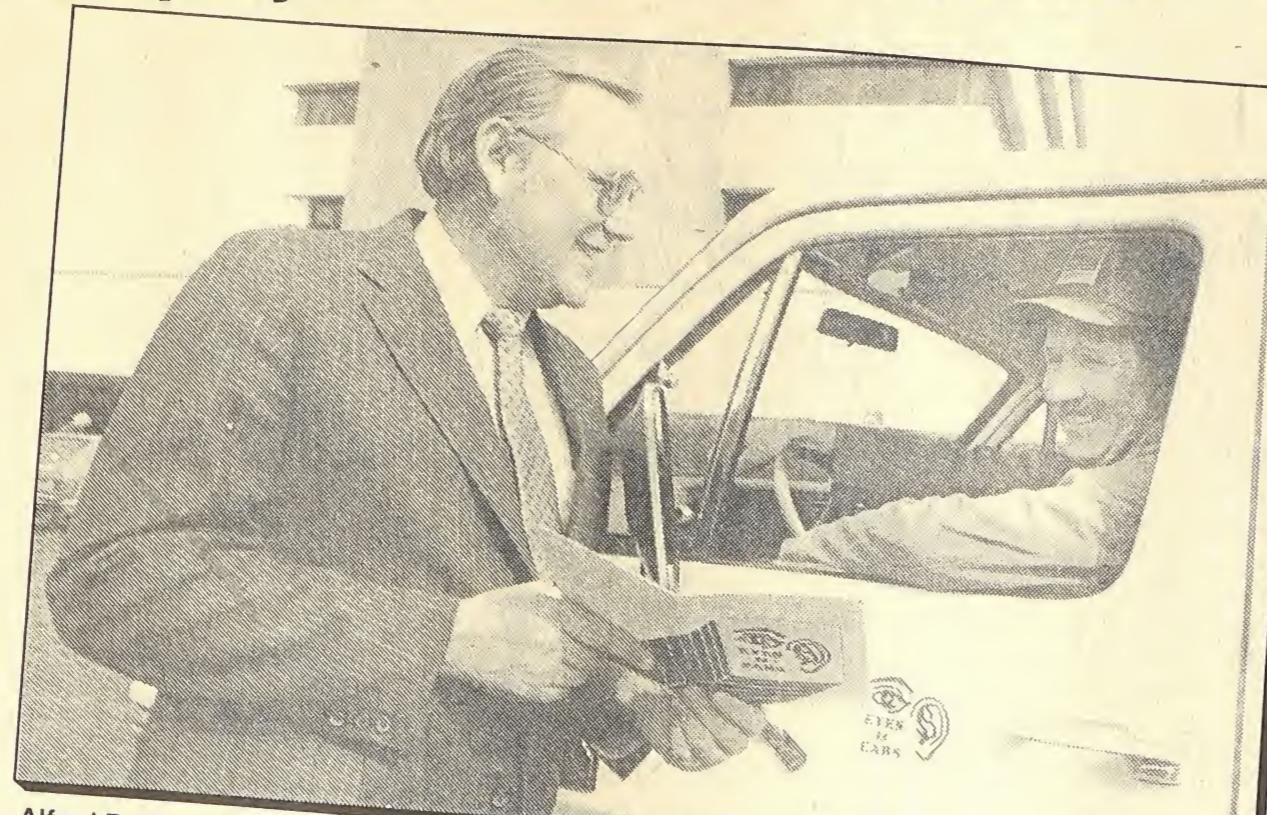

"We are pleased that we are in the position to offer Belleville Sumpter and Van Buren a concrete program which has already proved to be a significant deterrent to crime in the Detroit area," said Alfred R. Glancy III, chairman and chief executive officer of MichCon.

Through Eyes and Ears, utility vehicles in the communities to make service calls will be available to aid residents in trouble.

The vehicles will be marked with identifying decals. In addition utility employees will be given a radio link with the police departments and be trained to look for signs of crime.

Children or others, who are in a threatening situation, will be able to approach MichCon, Edison or Michigan Bell employees directly and ask for assistance. The utility workers will either take the individual away from the location of the problem, radio for police assistance, or both.

According to Detroit Police Lt.

Alfred R. Glancy III, chairman and chief executive officer of MichCon, discusses the expansion of the company's Eyes and Ears emergency assistance program to the Belleville, Van Buren and Sumpter area with service employee Kenneth Atwood.

James Kohl, the mere presence of utility vehicles has been a tremendous crime deterrent in Detroit.

"Water, electric, gas and telephone employees are all involved in the program," Kohl noted. "As far as I know this is the first time that all the utilities have joined together in an effort with the police department."

other projects planned are a Las Vegas Night at 7 p.m. April 7 at the PNA hall (tickets $6 at the door) and a pancake brunch at McDonald's on Rawsonville Road from 11 a.m. to 2 p.m. April 15.

Activities also in the planning stages include an auction, Country Sports Run, dance recital, soap sale, car washes, raffle for a video recorder and booths at the Strawberry Festival.

For additional information on the Booster Club and its fundraising projects, call the Tiger Hotline at 697-0500.

Donna Montie and Doris Beckley are serving as co-chairmen for the Hawaiian Vacation raffle.

'Romantic Comedy' features local director, cast members

"Romantic Comedy," a tale of two writers, will be presented by the Plymouth Theatre Guild at 8 p.m. April 6, 7, 13 and 14 at the Central Middle School, located at Church and Main Streets in downtown Plymouth.

Robert Weibel of Westland will direct Bernard Slade's play, which opened on Broadway in 1979 with Tony Perkins and Mia Farrow in the lead roles. Cast members include Tobin Hissong of Canton; Holly Twichele, Canton; Helen DeJulio, Westland; Joe Haynes, Belleville; Rosemary Moorehead, Plymouth, and Sue Ellen Haukkala, Ypsilanti.

Weibel has been active as a director, performer and technician in more than 50 shows since joining the Wayne-Westland Civic Theatre in 1959. He has served many terms on the group's board of directors, including several as president, and has been a member of the Community Theatre Association of Michigan.

His credits as a director include "Deathtrap" for the Plymouth Theatre Guild last year. Weibel also directed the first dinner theatre production downtown Detroit, "Fantasticks" at the Shelby Hotel in 1974.

Hissong, who is cast in a lead role as playwright Jason Carmichael, has appeared in various local shows, the latest being "The Elephant Man" for the Spotlight Players and "Forty Carats" for the Plymouth Guild.

Haynes will be making his first stage appearance for the Plymouth Guild after completing a performance in "The Elephant Man." A graduate of St. Mary's College in Orchard Lake, Haynes hopes to pursue a career of acting and writing.

DeJulio is an English instructor at Franklin Junior High School in Wayne and has performed in various plays for the Spotlight Players. Twichele last worked with the Plymouth Guild as the head of the props crew for "Forty Carats."

Technicians for the performance are Ann Schaffer, assistant director and stage manager; Robin Galick, producer; Dennis Schlicker and Joe Marsh, set construction; Jack Montague, lights; Richard Brown and Patricia O'Rourke, sound; Karen Groves, props; Clemie Cyburt, costumes; Al LaCroix, make-up, and Joe Marsh, tickets.

Tickets, priced at $4 for adults and $3 for seniors and students under 18, may be obtained at the door or by calling 261-2875.

Spanish students headed for Madrid

Four advanced Spanish students and their teacher, Michela Colosimo, will be spending Easter week in Spain.

Their trip, April 21-29, will take them from Madrid, the Capital, to Cordoba, Seville, Granada, and Torremolinos in the Andalucia region of southern Spain.

The four students — Tina Alagna, Lisa Cutler, Terri Galbraith and Yolanda Taylor — have been working since last November to raise money for this "once-in-a-lifetime opportunity."

"This is the first time since the mid-70s that we can do this," she added.

The students have sold candy, assorted Christmas merchandise, carnations and donuts to reach their goal.

More than half of the cost of the trip was raised by fund-raising and a contribution from the Kiwanis Club of Romulus.

The performers are members of the Detroit Center for the Performing Arts, which sponsored the theatrical production for the youngsters.

Students at Field Elementary School in Canton Township recently were treated to theatrical performances by actors from the Detroit Center for the Performing Arts. The performances of "Escape to Freedom," "The Three Billy Goats Gruff" and "Little Red Riding Hood" were given in appreciation for the students' support in fundraising efforts for the Center. After the plays, actors talked with the students and signed autographs. Written by Ossie Davis, "Escape to Freedom" involves the early years of Frederick Douglass, his life as a slave, his hunger to learn to read and write and his personal challenge to be treated as a human being.

Perhaps, some day...

I have always been intrigued for some reason with science-fiction technology. Dick Tracy's two-way wrist video telephone and his anti-magnetic individual transportation vehicles always stimulated my thinking. Maybe it's because I am a "possibility thinker." When I see a problem my mind starts looking for a solution.

Recently my mind turned as it has many times during the years to medical technology. Human engineering holds a special interest and fascination when you begin to join possibility thinking and medicine for the purpose of relieving human suffering.

Like Dick Tracy's wrist watch communicator, many of yesterday's far-out ideas are concepts are becoming today's realities. Yesterday's "wishes", if you will, often become tomorrow's actuality.

I have an aunt who has suffered beyond all imagination as a result of crippling rheumatoid arthritis. Doctors have successfully been replacing one-by-one her deteriorating body parts with artificial "joints". The operations have resulted in my aunt being able to continue to live a functional, although stressful, life. Such "part" replacement operations could become unnecessary if certain medical breakthroughs came into existence.

It occurred to me years ago that rather than mechanically manufacturing body parts or transferring them from donors, perhaps they could be regenerated by the body itself.

I have not done a lot of reading on the subject for it clearly is not my field. My views are strictly pedestrian. However, I have read of research into genetic codes and it occurs to me that there may be the possibility of self-reconstruction. What if each of us had the opportunity to have on file at our doctor's office, a genetic code "blueprint" recorded and stored in a computer's memory. A complete record of what we look like structurally in a code language the body understands.

In the event of an accident resulting in, say the loss of a limb, like the loss of a wing of a mansion, through fire or storm damage, we could go back to the blueprints.

We would have to be able to trigger the body to regenerate, as it does hair and fingernails, that part recently lost. A limb, kidney, or heart could be renewed or replaced by the body itself. That could perhaps be accomplished if we knew the body's language and knew how to talk to it and influence it to do what we "wished" it to do.

Perhaps epilepsy could be erased by identifying the electrical circuit in the brain that is shorting out, which is all epilepsy is. If we could identify it, and instruct the body to reconstruct we could solve the problem and "cure" the defect. On the other hand, the existing defective brain circuit or body part could be bypassed and instructed to shrink or disappear when no longer needed.

I'm reminded of the story of the American naval commander who, during a pending naval confrontation with the enemy, summoned his lieutenants. "Gentlemen, I have an idea," he said. "If we were to set the ocean on fire we could destroy the entire fleet of our opponents." "Sir, piped up a disciple of the command, one confused by this concept. "Sir, it is an interesting idea to be sure, but how do we accomplish what you are suggesting?" The commander replied, "My boy, my job is to come up with the plans. Yours is to figure out how to carry them out!"

Perhaps my thinking on this subject is off track, or perhaps somewhere in some laboratory a brilliant scientific mind is in the process of perfecting such a possibility. What I wish for is less human suffering in this world as a result of disease such as my aunt's or brain short circuits like my son's. Perhaps, someday...

See you next week.

End of an era...

It is the end of an era for the Wayne-Westland Community Schools with the departure of its superintendent, Dr. Timothy Dyer, to warmer regions.

For 11 years Wayne-Westland has traveled in waters chartered by Dyer, and while there have been good times, there have been bad times too, some due to economic conditions, some due to his progressive look at education.

He was a man of vision who saw great things for the school district. Much of what he dreamed was accomplished. Some of what he hoped for fueled the fires of discontent...An administrative-social services complex that some questioned the need for and some have called his Taj Mahal...A proposed community college for the district that drew stiff opposition and charges that it was his way of getting an elusive college president's position.

In light of the problems plaguing Wayne County Community College, that proposal may not have been as outlandish as it originally seemed.

A mover and a shaker in Western Wayne County, he was a man who faced conflict head on. Granted, at times he appeared abrasive and authoritarian, but he chose to be up front in the battles rather than lurk in the shadows and let others carry the banner.

He goes to a school district as troubled, if not more so than Wayne-Westland. Even that departure has stirred conflict, with several board members questioning calculations and the amount of money he received as his final payout. The estimated $15,000 he received may appear small in relation to the district's more than $60 million a year budget, but the dispute is a reflection of the conflict that exists in the district...The them versus us syndrome that could be put to rest or sharpened by the new superintendent.

We must in all sincerity thank Dr. Dyer for the more than 23 years he has given Wayne-Westland as a teacher, principal and superintendent. In spite of the problems and criticisms, he was a good superintendent. We wish him well in his new endeavor for we are confident he will make the Phoenix Unified Schools as good as the Wayne-Westland Schools.

We also wish for an end to the bickering in Wayne-Westland. The fact that parents, employees and administrators are involved and concerned about the district is a plus. However, the incessant squabbling that has given this district as much unwanted ink as President Reagan's choice for attorney general must end. It has served only to tarnish the district's image.

We fear that the selection of the new superintendent will only further polarize this district, although we hope that the Board of Education will work as a team and not as them versus us in the final decision.

A somewhat controversial statesman once said, "Peace is at hand." We think it is for Wayne-Westland. How strong and long-lasting it will be is up to the district's new movers and shakers. We will all have to wait and see.

Until then, we say: "Good luck, Tim, and may God speed."

Boosters deserve praise

When it comes to raising funds, the Belleville Athletic Booster Club has few peers.

Club members have become adept at finding ways to keep the athletic program in the school district in operation despite millage problems. Car washes, raffle drawings, Las Vegas nights...the projects have been varied.

Despite the success, voters in the district must be made aware that the Booster Club's activities are merely a short term solution to a serious problem. A Booster Club can be expected to supplement a budget; it cannot be expected to completely fund a program forever.

The club has set a goal of $30,000 to be raised before June 30 to take care of the high school's athletic teams for the 1983-84 season. Without these monies, it is believed that the club will cease its efforts.

Athletics, as well as music, debate every facet of a total educational experience. It is our belief that every student should have an equal opportunity to participate in such a total program regardless of race, creed or residency.

Residency? Too often students are deprived of extra-curricular programs due to a decision reached at a local voting booth. At the same time students in a neighboring district may be allowed to participate in sports simply because the electorate voiced its approval through a millage renewal or hike.

We certainly feel that the total tax rate in this country remains too high. However, we also feel that a system which permits the voter to take out his or her frustrations on school millage issues is discriminatory.

Do Belleville and Van Buren students have any say in the matter? Can they control the emotions of local voters?

The Belleville Athletic Booster Club is to be commended for stepping in and keeping athletics alive.

Members have displayed a sense of responsibility and enthusiasm that deserves the respect of the entire community.

We wish them well in their drive to raise $30,000. We also hope that voters take note of their efforts and provide relief in the near future.

viduals were nominated. No one was disqualified by the committee. The procedure was explained to the audience at the awards program. He was not in attendance and his comments were obviously written before the program took place.

The main point of my letter is that in this day and age, getting a few people together with different backgrounds to work together, achieving what this small group has done, does not need the harassment of the local press. There is nothing wrong with constructive criticism and a difference of opinion, but I think we should all try to go forward together!

Help was appreciated

To the Editor:

The Jaycee Park Building Authority Telethon Committee would like to express their sincere appreciation for the help and hard work of the following people:

Sam Caincross and Jerry Glass co-chairmen of the event.

Bob Beeny and Dan Smith for acquiring all the donations, Carol Glass for rounding up all our entertainment, Sue Damitio for all our publicity, Kathy Beeny for securing our volunteers, Pat Keister for helping with volunteers, phone callers and refreshments, Frank Nagy for helping with refreshments, Dan Smith and Jim Henley our cameramen and all the Jaycees that helped out that day.

Also helping out on this worthwhile project were Bob Walker, set director, Sheila Caincross, secretary, all the Wayne Jaycees, Jaycees, Civitans, Group W Cable, all the merchants who donated, all the people who called in and bid on the items and all our volunteers who worked behind the scenes.

Without the help of all these hardworking, dedicated people, our very worthwhile project would not have been the overwhelming success that it was. The total income from this project was well over $1,600. This money will be spent as stated in publicity and during the telethon on making the Jaycee Park

Comments:

Ted Koppel--On the media

"I don't think the job of journalists is to bring news down to the lowest common denominator. When they do that, they sometimes go off the deep end. They tend to rely on cliches. They tend to concentrate on the most recent event rather than the most important event."

"It's horrific, mediocre, terrific and on the whole journalism is an obsession to know. You have to have an insatiable curiosity in this business, an interest in everything. I don't believe there is such a thing as a dull story."

"I don't think there's too much TV news... wait... Yes, I would. Very few local stations have enough news to fill two hours, and I'm not sure 24-hour news talk stations are a good idea. I'd rather see less and better news reporting than more."

"I can't give you the one, two, three of staying objective. I was hired to be objective for a half hour a night, and I don't think that's too much to ask. When the day comes that I don't regret a question I've asked, then I'll sit in judgment of a colleague."

"I spend five to six hours a day in the broadcast sense in preparing for 'Nightline', but when I get up in the morning I read five newspapers, take a conference call at 10 a.m. and spend much of the day on the telephone. My work day is between 10 and 14 hours, with all but a hour spent preparing for 'Nightline'."

Who should live where?

To the Editor:
I am writing this with hope that you will see fit to inform our people, young and old of the problems that will arrive in the event they have to have a loved one placed in a nursing home for whatever reason. There are state guidelines that must be followed. But, they are abused more often than followed. The main purpose of some of these homes seems to be to drain these people of what little bit of money and dignity they have.

That's called private pay. When only basic care is needed many of these homes will not accept medicare until the person has paid from nine to 12 months for their care out of their own pockets. That usually costs our senior citizens anywhere from $12,000 to $15,000, which in most cases they will have to sell their homes or anything of value that they have worked many years to acquire.

Is this a fair way to treat the very people who have cared for us, fed us and made sacrifices all their lives to make us better people today? They have paid their dues many times over and now it should be our turn to make things better for them.

The point I want to make is: Why should these people have to give their life's worth to get into a nursing home that has a little better view or a higher paid staff to get a little better care. The basis for pay should be the same for everyone.

I am going to do what I can to change this situation, and I need all the help and support you can give. We will all be old someday and I would like to think someone will care about how I am being treated and cared for.

Tax book is needed

Dear Editor,

It's that time of year for the Property Tax Review Board to meet again.

Anyone seeking to keep or obtain a reduction in their Property Tax Assessment must make a presentation before the board.

I am sure a lot of people who feel they are over appraised, would approach the Review Board, if they only knew the inner workings of how these assessments were made.

I highly suggest that the City of Romulus prepare a pamphlet to be sent out with each tax bill and appraisal that would explain these items and any others they would see fit.

This pamphlet should explain:

1. What the review board does.

2. How the assessments are made.

3. How to present your case before the review board.

4. Your options if you are not satisfied with the decision of the board.

5. Any little known facts that the law allows the property owner to use in the preparation of his case.

The city has hired a bright young man as tax assessor. This employee of ours should, with all his expertise, have no problem in drawing up a comprehensive pamphlet.

Although I am not on the council, I, "Average Joe Taxpayer," on behalf of myself and all citizens of Romulus, make the motion that the council do what ever is needed to implement this program.

This is a chance for the leaders of the city to strike a blow for the little guy, showing him that the city truly understands his problems and is willing to give him a fair break.

Another statistic persons in Wayne come from families considered to be within poverty guidelines set by the federal government. In Westland, more than 19,000 individuals qualify. In Inkster, 16,000, in Romulus, 8,000.

John never felt comfortable taking a handout. Swallowing one's pride takes a strong stomach.

Of course, John didn't want a handout. He wanted a job. But a job requires skills and skills require schooling and schooling requires time and money. Time and money were running out.

Life at home provided its share of troubles. John was separated from his wife and reconciliation didn't seem all that likely.

Thirty-five percent of these participating in a Gallup poll admitted they worry "all the time" or "most of the time" that their income will not be enough to meet family expenses.

We like to think of ourselves as "winners," psychologists are quick to point out. Society doesn't label the unemployed and the poverty stricken as "winners", however.

John weighed his options and made his decision. After he phones to inform his wife of his solution, she promptly called the Wayne Police Department.

As the officers arrived outside John's apartment door that Saturday morning, they heard the one sound that told them they were too late. The sound of a blast from a 16 gauge shotgun told the story. Opening the door would confirm what the officers already knew.

"Winners" don't commit suicide. Losers do. Somewhere, somehow, somehow John lost the will to win.

A comparison of Gallup polls taken recently with those from 10 years ago indicates that the public perceives the ability to provide food, clothing and health care for their family has grown worse.

A conflict of interest?

Wayne County Executive William Lucas may have submitted the name of Mellus Newspaper Publisher Ernest L. Nagy to fill one of two vacancies on the Wayne County Road Commission, but the CEO probably won't find support from the legislative branch.

The WCRC is left with only one of three commissioners after the county commissioners refused to put their stamp of approval on two other nominees.

Nagy, of course, is the popular publisher from a downriver chain and, according to a press release from Lucas's office: "Mr. Nagy is extremely active in the community ... and, in addition, to his publishing background, he is involved in a number of community organizations and projects.

"Such involvement keeps Mr. Nagy's finger on the pulse of county residents ... for this reason he will be a good ambassador on the Wayne County Road Commission," the press release concludes.

That's a bunch of hogwash, according to Wayne County Commissioner Kay Beard whose district includes Inkster, Westland and Garden City.

"Mr. Nagy may be well qualified to hold the position," Mrs. Beard says, "but he's a publisher of a newspaper. How do you think his editorial staff is going to report the going-ons in the county with Mr. Nagy on the board? Can they objectively report what goes on knowing their boss will sit in judgment?"

"I have some concerns over this appointment, and I know some of my colleagues also will (have concerns)," Mrs. Beard added.

There is a bit of urgency attached to Lucas' request to fill the vacancy. The Wayne County Road Commission has been left without a quorum. The commissioners approved Dr. Janice Frazier of Detroit, but rejected the nominations of Mary Ann Banks, mayor pro tem of Romulus, and Curt Boller, Brownstown supervisor.

Frazier was sworn in early Monday morning.

And she'll be twiddling her thumbs until a quorum is found.

The honeymoon (if there ever was one) is obviously over between the restless Beverly McAnally, Mayor of Romulus, and the City Council.

MOORADIAN

Debbie Karabees is a gusty, attractive woman who has stepped into a profession dominated by males. She coaches the boys swimming team at Cherry Hill High School.

And does a darn good job at it.

In fact, over the past five years the Spartans have dominated the Tri-River Conference championships. They are, as their records will show, in a class all by themselves.

To listen to this starburst of energy describe her work is refreshing and infectious. She loves coaching.

"I've always been very competitive," Karabees said, "and I just can't stand losing. I can understand it, but I can't accept it. To be a winner is to be unique, because it demands a lot from the person involved."

Karabees' followers haven't lost a conference dual meet during the past two seasons. In fact, few can remember when the Spartans dropped their last Tri-River engagement. (Someone volunteered to do some research on the subject, and get back to us at a later date . . . that's how long ago it's been.)

Although she is the first to admit that she can become tyrannical when it comes to coaching her swimmers, she concedes that "the hardness is superficial."

"You can't fool athletes. They know if you don't know your stuff. They can spot a fake immediately. Unquestionably, if you provide them with a learning experience, they're going to come back."

"Our kids here are wonderful," Karabees says.

But even though some are old-fashioned about woman coaching traditionally boys' sports, Karabees finds that "when you have winners that quiets the critics."

What she would like to see is "more newspaper coverage for the sport by the daily and community newspapers."

"It seems that most of the space is allocated to either basketball or wrestling in your newspaper," Karabees insists. "I feel that the swimmers in this area have been left out for some reason. These kids deserve better."

"In fact, over the last few years the newspaper hasn't even selected an All-Area team. How come?"

That is a good question.

We hope to correct that error next week.

And because readers in our communities are demanding more sports coverage about their local teams, we have decided to expand the sports section in the weeks ahead.

What we need now from the athletic directors are the spring-summer schedules and the names and telephone numbers of new coaches on the roster.

Also, the ANP sports desk will be handling calls on Sundays from 9 a.m. until 5 p.m. . . . just like in the past.

Baseball, anyone?

Little Caesar's is seeking baseball teams for its travel league in the Willie Mays Division. Players in that division should be between the ages of 9 and 10.

If you are interested in playing in that division, contact Joe Cooley after 5:30 p.m. at 595-1988.

POLLIS ROBERTSON

MARIO GRAZULIS

GARY THOMAS

Rivals respect these champs

They earned their cage titles

A championship means many things to many people, but to the six members of the Associated Newspapers' second Team All-Area squad, it proved to the entire Western Wayne County area what their fans already knew — these six young men are winners.

The four teams represented by these six players all won championships of some sort during the 1983-84 season.

The Rockets of Westland John Glenn posted a 9-1 Northwest Suburban League record en route to the league title; Plymouth Salem won their third straight district title two weeks ago; Plymouth Canton scrapped and clawed their way to the Western Lakes crown, and Wayne Memorial won the Western Wayne County Christmas Classic Tournament.

Leading the Rockets to their first league title in three years was 6-6, 200-pound center Mario Grazulis. The younger brother of 1983 All-Area center Paul, Grazulis was a first-team All-NWSL choice, and according to his coach, Gordie Davis, "has only scratched the surface of his talent."

Not to mention scratching the backboards for 291 rebounds, second on the all-time Rocket list. He was the Rockets' leading scorer with 15 per game.

Also instrumental in the Rocks' success was 6-1, 150-pound guard Jeff Hawley, who averaged 12.1 points per game and was deadly from outside. Hawley, who was also the quarterback for the school's football team, was the team's leading free throw shooter (72%) and proved it by sinking two clutch tosses to ice the NWSL title against Thurston.

Davis said Hawley was the "quiet leader on the team in practice and in games. He is also well-respected by his teammates."

Salem's Rocks, sporting a 20-4 record, were led by Rich Berberet and Erich Hartnett. Berberet, a 6-7, 220-pound senior center, is a three-year starter for Coach Fred Thomann. Berberet was a triple threat for Salem's opponents. He can score from both inside and out and averaged 17 points per game. Opposing teams had trouble defending him because of his versatility of shot selection. When he was fouled, he was deadly from the charity stripe, hitting 73%. Berberet also was a threat on the boards, hauling down over 200 this season.

Berberet also had over 90 assists, which made it even harder to play defense against him. Trying to play defense against Salem was doubly tough, especially with Erich Hartnett handling the ball for the Rocks. The 6-3, 180-pound senior guard could put it through the hoop with the best, averaging 11.5 points a game or he could pass it off to one of his teammates that led to 97 assists.

Probably his best game came against Glenn in the district tournament when he dazzled the crowd with his shooting and passing skills for 23 points and 10 assists. Hartnett was also tough on the boards, bringing down 150 caroms.

Wayne Memorial's Chuck Henry had plenty to smile about this season as the Zebras posted a 16-5 record and part of the reason for that smile was 6-6, 210-pound junior center Pollis Robertson.

Regarded by many as one of the finest players in Wayne's long and storied history, Robertson was a force on the boards and helped the Zebras with their inside game. He averaged 13 rebounds a game.

Robertson averaged 14 points per game and was a strong cog in Henry's game plan.

Canton not only was fueled by the passing of first-team All-Area player Mark Bennett, but also by the shooting of Gary Thomas, a 5-11, 140-pound guard.

Thomas was described by his coach, Dave Van Wagoner, as a "great shooter and a team leader."

Tell that to Farmington Harrison, Livonia Stevenson, Salem, or Wayne, and they will attest to that. Thomas averaged 17.5 points a game and was the Chiefs' leading scorer.

"He won a lot of games this year by hitting 7 or 8 shots in a row," said Van Wagoner.

This team has it all — an "air-craft carrier", two forwards who can score with great efficiency and rebound as well, two guards who are effective in running an offense, and one guard who can shoot the lights out, but most of all, all six young men are winners and proved it in many ways this past season.

Romulus Wilkerson Coach of the Year

This was an exceptional basketball year for Coach Al Wilkerson and the Romulus High Eagles.

After struggling for the past three seasons, the Eagles managed to come through with an enviable 19-5 over-all record, win their first Class A district championship in 10 years and reach the semis of the regionals before losing to an outstanding Detroit Southwestern High quintet. Southwestern lost the state title to Flint.

Wilkerson, 34, has been at the helm of the Eagles for the past four years and this year's team, he feels, ranks with some of the best in the school's long history. When you consider that cage greats such as Johnny Long and Shaler Halimon, Jr. wore Eagle forms, that's saying quite a lot.

"These kids showed a lot of class out there," Wilkerson notes. "We managed to accomplish what we did because the chemistry was there."

The chemistry was there, and should remain with the Eagles for the next two seasons due particularly to catalyst, 6-8 sophomore Terry Mills who will be returning to the line-up. Mills is considered one of the finest young players on the high school scene in the nation today.

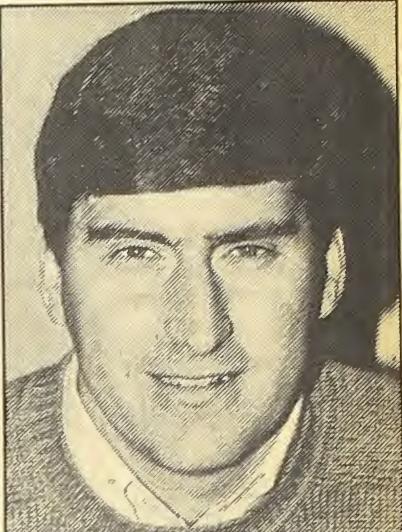

For his accomplishments, The Associated Newspapers is honored to name Wilkerson as its All-Area Basketball Coach of the Year.

Romulus finished second in the running for the inaugural Metro-West Conference Championships for one good reason — Oak Park. The Redskins captured the Class B state title after finishing runner-up a year ago. In fact two of those five Romulus losses were to the state champ while one of the other three was to the Prospectors of Southwestern at the regional.

Wilkerson demands discipline from all his players.

"Without discipline, a team will collapse," he says.

And you can bet the Eagles will be in the running for the next few years.

charges.

Admittedly, I made the deposit late and cut the timing thin. However, after several weeks of mulling this over, I sincerely feel that under the circumstances, I should not have been assessed NSF charges. Essentially what happened is that the checks were processed before the night deposit was opened. The $700 check was drawn on a Cash Reserve account, which made it immediately negotiable.

I expressed my dismay at the NSF charges to the employee, and she said, "I can cover your check to protect your reputation, but I can't waive NSF charges". My "reputation" is above reproach and I highly resent her statement.

This matter deeply troubles me as while I was being assessed, my deposit was, in fact, in the bank's hands.

I would very much appreciate a response from you explaining the equity of this situation from the Bank's viewpoint.

I am not looking for special treatment, however, I cannot justify the transaction. I find it to be exceedingly unfair and very costly. Again, I am not a large depositor but I am a growing business and, above all, a customer.

Sincerely, Ms. E

RESOLUTION: Nine days af-

Dear Letter Writer:
I recently had a bad experience with my bank. They charged me a lot of money in NSF charges. I don't think they handled it fairly as I had made a deposit, they just hadn't recorded it yet. Please help me tell them my story.

Sincerely, Ms. E.

Dear Bank:

I am a very small business account and have been with your Bank since November, 1982, approximately 1 1/2 years. I have waited several weeks to write to you as I was uncertain as to how to express my dilemma and, additionally, I was uncertain as to who to write to.

During the month of July, 1983, I made a $700 deposit into the Night Mail Depository at your Bank. The following morning six of my checks came through for payment. I received a telephone call from an employee of your Branch, who informed me that the checks had come through; had been paid by the bank, however, the employee requested that I come in immediately to cover them. I explained to her (the employee) that I had made a deposit the night before in the amount of $700. The employee then checked the night deposit and found my deposit. She informed me that I had been assessed $72 in NSF

FOOD FOR THOUGHT

By John Brimble

Super cranberry sauce with a tang is made of 3 cups cranberries, 1/2 cup each water and orange juice, and a cup of sugar. Cook till berries pop. Let cool and add 2 Tbs. Cognac, 1 Tbs. grated orange peel, and 1 Tbs. lemon juice.

Add texture to salad with toasted pine nuts sprinkled on just before serving.

The easy way to peel little onions: cover with boiling water for 3 minutes, then drain. Skins will slip off easily. (Cut a small x in the root end to help onions hold shape while cooking.)

Simple steamed carrots are more exciting topped with a sauce of mayonnaise, parsley, a little grated onion, and — here's the kicker — a tablespoon of cream-style horseradish! Top with buttered crumbs and bake until golden for a company dish.

Do you love roasted chestnuts? You can have them fresh-roasted all year round. Buy now, then freeze in sealed storage bags. To use, defrost a few minutes, x the flat side, and zap in your microwave about a minute on high. Let cool before peeling.

Do you love delicious food, nicely served, in a pleasant atmosphere? Then you're going to love Captain Nemo's.

Holding the line

Van Buren rates 'best in state' from township auditor

By EVE SILBERMAN
ANP Staff Writer

Van Buren Township held the line on last year's budget, the township's auditor told trustees last week.

The township's 1983 expenditures were only 2 percent greater than projected, auditor Ron Traskos said. "The general fund balance is very healthy," Traskos stressed. "I'd rate the Van Buren fund balance as one of the best in the state."

The township budgeted $1.37 million in expenditures, and spent $1.4 million, or $28,000 more than was budgeted, according to the audit.

The audit covered an "odd period," Traskos pointed out, because of the township's switch to charter status in August which altered its fiscal calendar. "This was a nine month audit, from April to December," Traskos said. "No tax revenues were included."

The township received $100,000 more in revenue than it anticipated, the auditor said. He attributed the increase to: higher than anticipated state aid; building department fees that totaled $10,000 more than projected; and increased interest income because of successful investments.

Beefed-up police patrols also boosted income from tickets and fines, the auditor said.

Water and sewer funds were also "very good," Traskos said, and came close to the "break even point" after depreciations.

In another matter at the March 27 meeting, trustees approved a revised ordinance regulating dish-type (or parabolic) antennas.

Van Buren officials modified the ordinance after the protesting residents met with members of the township's cable commission.

The revised ordinance contains two major changes, according to Township Clerk Delphine Dudick. A "shrubbery requirement" (that the antennas be shielded behind shrubbery or a six foot fence) was dropped. In addition, the antennas will be allowed in side yards.

Remaining restrictions would limit the antenna to one per residence; require it to be a maximum diameter of twelve feet; and prohibit front yard placement.

The trustees also:

"The general fund balance is very healthy. I'd rate (it) as one of the best in the state."

Study Club elects new officers

The election of new officers was a highlight of the March meeting of the GFWC Belleville area Intermediate Study Club.

Elected for the 1984-86 club year were Gloria Gardner, president; Pat Antonelli, vice-president; Kitty Davies, secretary; and Vicki Leischner, treasurer.

Club members made final

Sally Gross of Van Buren Township was welcomed as a new member. Sharon Polifroni of Ypsilanti Township and Pat Klemans of the Fred C. Fischer Library in Belleville attended as special guests. Klemans presented a program on the library to the group.

Club members made final arrangements for the annual card party, to be held April 11 at the Van Buren Township Hall, voting to donate the proceeds to the Genevieve Clark Memorial Scholarship.

Meeting at the Alden Drive home of member Pat Antonelli, the club heard a presentation by Van Buren Township Clerk Delphine Dudick on the Township's Van Buren Area Let's Utilize Energy (VALUE) program. Five members of the club will serve on the VALUE committee.

The next meeting will take place on Wednesday, April 18th. Any person interested in more information should contact Nancy Sawyer at 697-0764.

Approved a request from the cable commission to hire a consultant to redraft the township cable ordinance. Dudick, the township representative on the committee, said an outside consultant was needed because of complex technical and legal questions. Tigers have look of champions

Well, here I am fans, just back from Lakeland, Fla. where I watched the Tigers in spring training and I'm really excited about this ballclub.

I say the Tigers will win the American League East, which is baseball's toughest division. No, I wasn't out in the sun too long. Even though they had a poor exhibition record, this team is ready. The players are in top physical condition and I think they believe they're going to win it.

Manager Sparky Anderson, despite changing his mind almost every day about who's going to play third base, is singing the praises of his '84 Tigers and well he should.

Last season Detroit finished with the third best record in the major leagues and this year's team is better. The signing of free agent, left hand hitting first baseman Darrell Evans should help. Evans, a pull fly ball hitter should find Tiger Stadium short rightfield porch to his liking and give the team much more run production than they got at that position last season.

The trade this spring with Philadelphia also solved a weak spot, the lack of a top notch lefty in the bullpen. Willie Hernandez is a top notch reliever who can strike out lefthand hitters regularly.

The other player who came in the trade, first baseman Dave Bergman, is a good defensive player with good power from the left side that will provide the team with insurance and he will also serve as the designated hitter at times.

Up the middle lies the real strength with Detroit. The double play combo of Alan Trammell and Lou Whitaker is second to none and along with catcher Lance Parrish and center fielder Chet Lemon the Tigers rank as the best in baseball up the middle, both offensively and defensively.

At third base the Tigers should alternate Tom Brookens and Howard Johnson. Johnson is going to be an outstanding hitter anytime now. He's a switch hitter that can destroy right handers. Johnson has good power and speed, needing to develop from the right side and also needing more confidence, especially in the field where he's erratic.

To get Hernandez and Bergman, the Tigs had to give up Glenn Wilson and John Wockenfuss. Wilson's departure means Kirk Gibson has right field all to himself. The potential is there ... tremendous speed, tremendous power.

But Gibson will be 27 next month and it's time to turn potential into reality. In his four plus years with the Bengals, Gibson has been inconsistent at the plate and the few times he's played right field have been disastrous. Gibson's arm is weak. So right field is a big question mark.

Larry Herndon in left field was brutal defensively last season so Lemon may really have his work cut out for him. Herndon, however, has had two solid seasons at the plate since the Tigers stole him from San Francisco and should continue to hit.

Barbara Garbey and Rod Allen will be the DH against lefthanders with John Grubb and Dave Bergman handling the chores against righthanders.

Now the bench. Marty Castillo and Dwight Lowry are the backup catchers with Castillo also helping out in the infield. Garbey also can play the outfield as well as first and third base.

Rusty Kuntz, picked up in a minor league trade with Minnesota, is the extra outfielder. He's a superb fielder with speed but hasn't proven he can hit major league pitching in brief trials. Allen, signed as a minor league free agent, is considered a good hitter who is reputed to be very weak defensively.

Now to the pitching. Starters Jack Morris and Dan Petry, with 39 wins between them last year, form as solid a 1-2 punch as anybody and they should do as well if not better this season. Milt Wilcox is a solid third starter and Juan Berenguer, who had a fine year in '83 after overcoming his control problems, will be the fourth starter.

Glenn Abbott, who did a good job as a starter after being acquired for Seattle last August, will be the long man in the bullpen until a fifth starter is needed. Aurelio Lopez and Hernandez will be the late inning stoppers with help from Dave Rozema and Doug Bair.

So there you have it, fans. A look at the '84 Tigers. Make no bones about it — this is a good ballclub. Last season 92 wins. This season 95-98 victories which will be enough to win the A.L. East. After that, who knows? The talent is there to win the World Series.

Ron Cameron hosts Sports Talk from 4 to 5 p.m. weekdays on WCAR 1090 AM. His show will originate from Tom's Tavern in Wayne next Saturday night.

Greg Lynch found gold at the end of the USSS' 100-yard breast stroke competitions. He'll be back next year to help Coach Sam Vicchy and the Belleville Tigers capture the Wolverine "A" Conference title.

Belleville swimmer wins gold medal

A Belleville High School 10th grader came home with the gold from the United States Swimming Meet (U.S.S.S.) held recently at Oakland Community College.

Greg Lynch, 15, took top honors in the 15-16 year old 100-yard breaststroke with a time of 1:04.10. He also placed seventh in the 200-yard breaststroke with a time of 2:24.45.

David Fowler, a Belleville High senior, also did his home team proud. He placed 12th in the 17-18 100 yard breaststroke with a time of 2:24.45.

Both boys represented the Belleville Tiger Swim Club in the competition.

Belleville High swim coach Sam Vicchy praised both boys. "They're both very competitive and outstanding youngsters to coach," Vicchy said.

Vicchy noted that both boys had practiced non-stop since Belleville took third place three weeks ago at the annual Wolverine "A" Conference championship at Trenton High. "Some kids let up after that

9. Engineer's Report - Wilhelm

Work on the drain has been stopped due to the weather. Mr. Banotai asked the Engineer if dead ends could be put in so that everyone in the Township could have water.

Too many dead ends do not make a loop, but will probably be doing as much of that as possible in order to make it possible for more people to get water.

Mr. Slayton asked what happens to the extra materials on the job. Contractor gets paid for just what he puts in. Everything is measured. Township is not responsible if contractor over bought.

Motion by Humphreys, supported by Morgan to accept the Engineer's Report. Motion carried unanimously.

Mr. Foston asked if all final inspections have been made on the Old Township Hall. If it is ready for occupancy. The building is complete to move into as far as the structure is concerned. There are no telephone lines installed as yet. The lower level of the building is not complete. Engineer stated again that this Jobs Bill was a job training program and the work that was done on the building was just that.

10. Old Business

A. Discussion of Snodgrass landfill permit.

Mrs. Snodgrass appeared before the Board to ask why her landfill permit was denied at the last board meeting.

B. Adonna Demski came before the Board to ask for their support of the Sumpter Day Committee. Also ask the Board to waive the ordinance and permit them to have a beer tent.
